NEWS FROM YOUR REGIONAL DIRECTOR

Why did the robot go on summer vacation? He needed to recharge his batteries! Why DON'T mummies go on summer vacation? They are afraid to relax and unwind! Happy August! For those on the semester system, Hall Director training has probably occurred, Resident Assistants will be showing up soon, and shortly after, classes will begin. Where did the summer go?! ## KC: HOW TO SUPPORT HELICOPTER PARENTS & SPACE STATION PARENTS AS PARTNERS IN STUDENT SUCCESS

As we experience the final days of summer before students (and their parents & families) return to campus, how do we support the “overprotective” parent or the “distant” parent? First, we should understand who these families are and how they might support their student. The first category is the “Helicopter” parent, or the parent who might seem overprotective and excessive. The second category is the “Space Station” parent, or the parent who might seem distant and difficult to reach. For rest of Blog, click here.

ARKANSAS MEMBERSHIP COORDINATOR: STUDENT ENGAGEMENT AS CAREER PREP

July marked the beginning of Arkansas’ second year of a productivity-based funding model for higher education and the third year of Regional Workforce Grants to encourage institutions to increase career and technical education offerings. Both have resulted in additional funding for higher education, along with a clear emphasis on how increasing postsecondary credential completion can impact economic development in the state. ## KC SPOTLIGHT: ENROLLMENT MANAGEMENT

As one year comes to a close and another is gearing up, many of us go through goal setting exercises both personally and professionally. For me, this happens twice a year – once in December for myself and again in the summer with my work teams. With personal goals, as the months pass, some of the excitement and motivation starts to wane. The goals we set in our work teams tend to have a little more staying power. ## FEELING GRATEFUL: BACK TO MY ROOTS

As a college first year, back in the dark ages when phones were attached to the walls and we still used trays in the cafeteria, I found my calling in student affairs. Many of us have that first SA job that was the centerpiece of our collegiate experience. For me, it was student government. I started out as a modest first year floor representative, and won a heated (hardly) election at our first floor meeting during orientation. (There were no speeches or campaign posters, thank goodness!) For rest of Blog, click here.

KC SPOTLIGHT: MEN AND MASCULINITIES

Hello Region IV-West. I am Matt Banks (they/them/theirs) and I serve as the Men and Masculinities Knowledge Community representative, working with the national KC to promote discussions and work around masculinities on college campuses. In particular, we focus on discussion, research, information distribution, and programmatic development support for individuals working on masculinity projects across the country. ## NASPA FOUNDATION: DO YOU NEED FUNDING?

Funding for Research endeavors and graduate student Travel to the IV-West Regional Conference will soon be available. This is made possible due to Region IV-W meeting and exceeding our NASPA Foundation goals! In fact, every NASPA region met their Foundation goals for 2017-18. For Region IV-W, our two goals included reaching 100 donors and $18,000 in total donations. As of June 27, Region IV-W was able to reach 106 donors and $18,207.17 in total donations. Congratulations Region IV-W and Thank You to everyone who donated! For rest of Blog, click here.
