ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2014 NEWSLETTER

EDITED BY PONGPUNYA JACK KORPOB

LETTER FROM THE NEWSLETTER EDITOR

Hello!

It's that time again for our Annual Conference and it's a delight to present to you our Annual Conference issue of the MMKC Newsletter. This newsletter is actually amazingly "light" compared to our regular issues (our next article submission deadline is March 21st, so definitely submit something for the Spring issue coming in April)! In this issue, I wanted our membership to hear from Patrick Tanner, the MMKC chair, and our two newly elected Co-Chairs, James Lorello and Aaron Voyles.

Included is the MMKC Sponsored Program Guide! Definitely check out these wonderful and diverse programs at the conference! Don't forget to mark your calendars for the MMKC Business Meeting on Tuesday, March 18th at 8-9am in the Marriot Grand Ballroom (West)!

This is only my second Annual Conference, but I'm very excited to network and see everyone in person, learn, and leave the conference energized...and hopefully find a job (I'm doing TPE...wish me luck and good luck to everyone else at TPE)!

Happy conferencing!

-Pongpunya "Jack" Korpob

LETTER FROM THE CHAIR

I'm all smiles.

I have to accept the unfortunate reality that my face does not naturally present itself in the form of a smile. If I had a dollar for every time someone commented on this...

But right now, I'm grinning from ear to ear. This is a consistent occurrence when I think about the Men and Masculinities Knowledge Community (MMKC). Seriously, when I consider each of the strong professionals that comprise our leadership team, I'm nothing but pleased. Our Regional Representatives have committed to engaging their colleagues with drive-in events and providing valuable learning and engagement opportunities at their regional conferences; our Faculty in Residence and Scholar/Practitioner in Residence have given us valuable insights that only come from experience; and our administrative chairpersons have given copious amounts of time dedicating themselves to the smooth operation of the KC, including the distribution of our amazing newsletter.

Specifically, I'd like to highlight folks like Logan Denney, our Mentoring Coordinator from Oregon State. He has brought his passion and leadership skills to bear and has produced a mentoring program for the MMKC. This initiative is a palpable representation of the ideals of knowledge communities and will continue to grow with his guidance and direction.

Barry Olson, our Scholar/Practitioner from North Carolina State has written eloquently about men's issues for the KC publication, and he is also delivering the Scholar Address at our Awards Reception on Tuesday night. His thoughts and ideas continue to challenge and inspire folks from the undergraduate level to the highest levels of administration.

Further, the content of our newsletter has never been better. There is a true sense of anticipation when it is released each quarter – the articles are articulately composed and thought-provoking for every reader.

It is truly a joy to serve NASPA with my colleagues on the MMKC leadership team. Through each of them, we've been accomplishing the goals set before us. As you consider men's gender identity development in a collegiate context, I hope that you will consider the MMKC a resource for you and your students.

Check us out, and maybe this business of smiling will prove to be contagious!

-Patrick Tanner

Special Thanks to Patrick Tanner
for his leadership of the MMKC!

LETTER FROM THE CO-CHAIRS ELECT

We are excited to be serving together as your co-chairs for this great Knowledge Community. The previous chairs of this group have done an outstanding job of setting us up for success, and our goal is to continue to build upon those achievements. Together, as this Knowledge Community, we can raise awareness about issues collegiate men face and work together to help men to renegotiate their masculinity to beat negative stigmas and behaviors.

When we were running for the chair position, we presented four major goals that we would like to accomplish. In transitioning to our new leadership roles, we want to again highlight these goals for our community to focus on:

First, we want to continue our proud tradition of a strong newsletter and growing online presence. Our Knowledge Community has the ability to reach professionals from all over the world for a multifaceted dialogue on the issues about which we care.

Second, we want to consistently push our level of engagement and discussion further. We can be at the forefront of providing great new programs, research, findings, and interventions with college men. We will actively seek innovative and expressive articles and presentations for sponsorship, so that we can increase the dialogue on our home campuses.

Third, we want to build a support network for campuses and individuals looking to enhance the quality of their men's initiatives. By culling our resources, we can construct a database of best practices and strong ideas to help create an environment of positive masculinity.

Fourth, we want to create a standard for men's initiatives on college campuses. We hope to establish a set of guidelines or accreditation so that we can articulate what good practice is when it comes to working with collegiate men.

Our hope is that you are just as excited to be joining us on this journey as we are. These goals are lofty but also obtainable. Together, with the help of our regional representation, our leadership team, and our general body members, we can change the negative trends for collegiate men into a new conceptualization of masculinity that embodies our vision as a pro-feminist, anti-racist, gay-affirmative Knowledge Community.

We look forward to seeing you at the conference and working with you!

-James Lorrello & Aaron Voyles

Good luck to our new MMKC Co-Chairs Elect!

 MEN AND MASCULINITIES

June 19 – June 21, 2014
Hyatt Regency - San Antonio, Texas

The 2014 NASPA Assessment & Persistence Conference is designed to promote student learning and success by strengthening assessment, improving educational quality, and developing intentional persistence programming.

<http://www.naspa.org/events/2014APC>

THE PURPOSE OF THE MEN & MASCULINITIES KNOWLEDGE COMMUNITY

The purpose of the Men & Masculinities Knowledge Community (MMKC) is to provide a venue for discussion, research, and the distribution of information about men’s gender identity development, in the context of college campuses.

The goals of the MMKC are:

1. To make gender identity(ies) a salient lens for viewing and working with male staff and students.
2. To develop and distribute resources that will enhance student affairs professionals’ ability to respond to the needs of male students
3. To inform the profession about new research and practices regarding the development of masculine identities as manifested in people in general, and men in particular (e.g. inclusive of masculinities performed by Trans/Queer, women.)
4. To offer technical and creative assistance to colleagues as they develop programs and services for male students.
5. To assist Student Affairs professionals in navigating the tensions between male privilege and men’s personal needs (e.g. challenge and support,) including support through the professionals’ personal frustrations in this regard.
6. To create guides to best practices in teaching male students about diversity, gender identity, and other critical issues affecting their personal growth.
7. To promulgate and/or distribute men’s issues and development scholarship for use in graduate preparation programs.

This KC was founded upon a pro-feminist, anti-racist, gay-affirmative agenda with the hope of providing resources to increase multi-cultural competence among male students by providing the NASPA membership with tools to invite and engage men into this process. The underlying assumption is that men in general are interested in social justice, capable of enacting it, and that they need language and a connection to the process.
