Leadership

Regional Advisory Board

Peggy Burke assumed the 2013-15 Regional Director position for NASPA IV-East after Renee Romano at the end of the NASPA Conference in Orlando on March 20, 2013. Renee left the region in excellent shape. The budget is strong, valuable leadership development opportunities are being planned and many of the board positions were already in place. The 2013-15 IV-East Regional Board is excited to build on the strengths of our previous board.

The Executive Committee joined the Regional Conference Committee for its Summer Planning Meeting on June 13-14th in Skokie, Illinois as the conference hotel. We took the time to review current regional business as well as develop our goals for the next two years. These preliminary goals will be:

1. Goal One: Professional Development - to serve the educational needs (both internal and external) of the region.

Strategies:

- Incorporate learning outcomes into all of our professional development activities.
- Conduct an assessment of what our members are learning .
- Incorporate competencies within in our professional development programs and volunteer positions.
- Conduct board level professional development.
- Evaluate who we are serving through SALT (undergraduate students/NPI (New Professionals Institute)/MLI (mid-level institute)

- Recruiting volunteers to assist us with our efforts to measure what our members are learning through our efforts.
2. Goal 2: Involvement – to provide a clear, active and well-organized experience for members to become involved in the region.
Strategies:
 - Provide a welcoming environment for new members.
 - Study how we recruit, renew and retain members.
 - Communicate a wide variety of volunteer opportunities for the region.
 - Enhance face-to-face contact with the regional board.
 - Have regional director send an orientation email to members of SALT & NPI.
 - Study how we recruit members from under-represented institutions.
 - Become strategic about membership.
 - Conduct a membership survey.
 3. Goal 3: Communication – to enhance the region’s communication systems to keep members actively involved, informed and engaged.
 - Successfully train the regional board about the new website.
 - Develop new and innovative methods for keeping the region informed.
 - Develop new methods of listening to members and gather information.
 - Design and implement a communication plan for the board.
 - Explore how to effectively use social media to keep members engaged with the region.
 4. Goal 4: Internal IV-East Operations – to develop internal systems that assist with the day-to-day operations of the board and enhance the region’s ability to be strategic and long-term focused.
 - Develop a strong transitional process from one board to the next which includes procedural binders for each member, meetings with new and old board members, and a repository of IV-East documents (e.g., Google Docs or Drop Box).
 - Update the current board manual.
 - Determine a robust budget process including line items, program codes, budget projections for all regional activities, and a financial strategic plan.
 - Consider long-term conference site planning, instead of year-to-year.

Also, at our Summer Planning Meeting, we discussed the possibility of a future joint conference with Region IV-West. An exploratory committee met in Orlando to discuss the benefits and the challenges of such a conference. The benefits include an expansion of our colleague base, increased buying power with hotels and speakers, improved vendor relations, increased opportunities for SSAO’s and graduate students, increased Knowledge Community connections, and the potential for further collaborative initiatives. The challenges of this joint conference are that the location will require one region to travel “out of region” and the potential increase in travel time to the regional conference. The Executive Committee was very positive about this potential joint conference and will encourage the exploratory committee to continue its work.

Membership Report

Region IV-East continues to have a strong membership numbers to report. We are currently at 2,163 active members which is an increase of 32 members since 2013 Spring Board Report. Here is the current membership report:

- 2163 active members
- 64 expiring members on 6/30/13
- 34 new members
- 52 recently expired members

At our Summer Planning Meeting, we were especially interested the following specific membership populations:

- 56 faculty members
- 21 undergraduate students
- 6 masters degree students
- 53 doctoral students
- 67 NUFP

A couple membership goals for the year are to increase faculty and student numbers by targeting the preparation programs in the region. We also want to make the region more welcoming to new members who join and attend the regional conference by sending personal e-mails to them and providing a formal welcome session at the regional conference in coordination with the conference committee and having an apparel item that all board members would wear that would identify them as resources to new members at the conference.

Treasurer's Report

As previously mentioned, the 2011-13 regional board has left the current board in a very strong financial position. The 2012 regional conference was highly successful and provided a net income to the region of $37,784.82. These funds will greatly assist the region to provide enhanced professional development opportunities for our members. As of June 20, 2013, the budget stands at:

Regional Board Budget

|--------------------------------------|-------------|
| Estimated Carry Over from 2012-2013 | $66,500.01 |
| NASPA Funds for 2013-2014 membership | $20,721.00 |
| Total Income | $87,221.01 |

There are still items that haven't hit our account yet, such as some expenses from the WISA Drive-In Conference, the summer meeting expenses, and the Orlando Marriott, so the total income is less than what is stated. We'll have a more accurate number by the time the new fiscal year begins on 7/1/13.

Member Engagement

- Continued a Community College track for the Region IV-E Conference and then sent an email to all of the Community College SSAO’s in Illinois informing them of the track, inviting them to submit programs of interest to the community college members in the region.
- Emailed the community college members in the region with information about the regional conference, the Community College Professional Award, the CCD newsletter, and the CCD Online Learning series, and invited their participation and volunteerism.
- Numerous knowledge communities have been using social media (twitter, facebook and blogs) to reach out to their members within the Region. Many of these knowledge communities have been trying to connect their messages with the Regional twitter hashtag #naspa4e to try and engage more NASPA 4E members.
- A number of the knowledge communities have either developed or are developing State Boards to encourage more of their members to become more involved, thus gaining more leaders and allowing the knowledge communities to better meet the needs of the members in each of the States.
- Knowledge communities are still working to better identify the needs of their members and many of them are using short polls to gather important information that will help them to understand what their members’ needs are.
- A number of the KC’s have submitted programs for the 2013 NASPA IV-E Conference and awaiting word on whether their KC will be represented at the conference itself.
- We have added an “Enough is Enough” representative to the regional board who will report to the Knowledge Community Coordinator.
- The Campus Safety KC is creating a regular regional KC e-mail correspondence for current topics for 2013 including:
 - Changes to guns on campus policies, practice and state/fed regulations
 - Research and resources from federal and state sources, industry and trade publications
 - Grants/Research opportunities for higher education
 - Share related trainings and conferences with membership, particularly those located within the region and little to no registration cost (includes other organizations webinars)
 - The African American (AAKC) Knowledge Community is working on a possible Webinar for Spring 2014 that would surround topics of interest for the KC which could include such issues as: African American men, LGBTQ students of color, and/or Black greeks and hazing

- The MultiRacial KC is hoping to have an Intersection of Identity Roundtable session as the KC had at the Orlando conference to provide members the following:
 - An opportunity to discuss identity conflicts, challenges with collaboration and the impact it has on our work with students.

- Dr. Joianne Smith of Oakton Community College was on the 2013 Women in Student Affairs (WISA) Region IV-East Drive-In Conference Senior Level Panel on June 1, 2013. The panel features a group of senior-level women professionals to mentor and inspire the next generations of women student affairs professionals in our region.

Scholarship

Faculty/Research/Scholarship Involvement

- To address the issue of “creation of knowledge” and “scholarship” in Region IV-E, Eric Buschlen, the NASPA IV-East Faculty Representative, has added a Call for Regional Research Papers for the 2013 regional conference. These sessions are designed to showcase research of faculty, graduate students, and professionals in the region through presentation and discussion of scholarly papers. All proposals will be screened by a scholarly team with a select few being accepted and grouped by theme. The selected papers will receive feedback and will be asked to submit a final draft to their discussant 30 days prior to the November 3rd conference. During the research paper sessions, each presenter will have 10 minutes to present their work. Each session will have four participants, discussant's comments, and an open dialogue period with the audience. Paper sessions will be 60 minutes long. This is a great opportunity for researchers to present original work and for discussants to provide critiques in an innovative, yet structured environment. The hope is that authors leave the session with a manuscript that is closer to publication quality. We also encourage Region IV-E scholars to serve as a first stage peer reviewer or as a session discussant.

Grants/Research

- The Region IV-E Research Grant will continue and will be managed by the Region IV-E Faculty Council Representative, Dr. Eric Buschlen. Last year's award winner, Dr. Bill Arnold, has been notified and he plans to present at this year's regional conference.
- The Student Affairs Development and External Relations KC is working to assist professionals in developing grants and scholarship opportunities for professionals to utilize for particular areas.

Professional Development

2013 NASPA IV-East Regional Conference: "Courageous Voices: Take a Stand"

The Conference Planning Committee has been hard at work planning the Region IV-E Conference to be held November 3-5 in historic Skokie, IL. The Conference Committee has been meeting monthly via telephone conference call and had a planning meeting June 13 and 14th at the Conference hotel in Skokie.

During the 1970's, Skokie found itself a symbol of both free speech and enduring humanitarian values when the National Socialist Party of America sought the right to march through the town (a community that was home to many holocaust survivors). This march was the catalyst for holocaust survivors around the world to recognize that despite their desire to leave the past behind, they could no longer remain silent. They organized to establish the Illinois Holocaust Museum, located in Skokie just a short distance from the conference hotel, and also a powerful venue for our regional conference.

It is in the spirit of that historic context that we crafted this year's regional conference theme, Courageous Voices: Take a Stand. Make a Choice. As Student Affairs professionals, we often face the tension of honoring individual rights and freedom of expression while also being courageous and challenging ourselves and our students to make choices that create a humane and just world.

2013 WISA Conference

- 62 individuals attended the conference. From this after expenses, the conference ended up raising $1666.29 overall.
- Overall, the conference went surprisingly well considering all the "snags" they hit along the way. The evaluation is out and they are starting to receive feedback. For the most part, the feedback is what they expected (moving the conference back to a Friday, the lack of air conditioning in two key spaces, etc.).
- The WISA KC is looking into re-working the conference time frame based on the future location and travel time for session to session, in addition to extending the amount of time allocated to the senior level panel. Additionally, more of a focus needs to be made on intentional outreach to make sure that people (non-NASPA members) know about the conference.
