Knowledge Community Coordinator

- Created and completed a needs assessment for Region III Knowledge Community Member Survey.
  - With the appointment of new Region III Knowledge Community Representatives there was discussion and interest in surveying members of Region III regarding their engagement with the Knowledge Communities. Several returning representatives expressed interest in knowing how best to contact members, how to share information, and if the information being shared was of interest to the membership. Working with three Knowledge Community Representatives, the Knowledge Community Coordinator developed a short survey for distribution.
  - In August, 2016 the survey link was distributed via email and social media (Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram). Knowledge Community Representatives were asked to send to the link to members from the region affiliated with their respective Knowledge Community. The survey was open one month received a total of 99 responses.
    - Respondents accurately responded to the purpose of the Knowledge Communities stating that the structure existed to generate new knowledge on a specific subject matter and to network with colleagues who shared a similar interest.
    - Respondents engaged with Knowledge Communities more because they had a passion/interest in the topic rather than the topic/area of focus being related to their job responsibilities. Respondents noted that keeping them abreast of trending topics and holding online forums (webinars, etc.) were most of interest for engagement. Further, if they were not involved as an appointed leader, respondents requested participation in professional development, networking opportunities, and reading articles/blogs posted online.
    - Respondents expressed the biggest challenge to their maintaining engagement in Knowledge Community forums was not having time given work and personal responsibilities.
    - General difficulties with the national office’s online presence were also noted as barriers to engagement. Respondents noted the website being confusing and information being inconsistent based on constituent group.
      - The survey highlighted struggles familiar to many educators working in the field who would like to be engaged in the work of NASPA – time, energy, and attention. Respondents discussed not having time to fully read articles or participate in online professional development due to the demands of their work. One respondent noted the following,
      - The volunteer structure is a good idea, and also not practical for Student Affairs employees. We, similar to the students we work with, are pulled in too many directions and those of us that demonstrate competency are tasked most often...Volunteers are still needed of course, in more specific duties and more strategically lined out.
      - Another struggle was the difficulty in information gathering. Many commented that the NASPA and Region III sites were confusing and they were unsure where to find the information. This frustration and confusion clearly led to disengagement.
      - The ambiguity of the Knowledge Community purpose was less an issue but the inconsistencies among Knowledge Community information sharing and outreach was noted as a concern.
- Posted, interviewed, and filed all open Knowledge Community positions by February 2017
  - Four new KC Representatives will be appointed before the March conference –
- Asian Pacific Islanders
- Gender and Sexuality
- Men & Masculinities
- Disability Concerns

- Developed a training module for new Knowledge Community members with headquarters
- After conversations with nearly all KC Representatives during October/November, focus turned to ensuring social media posts were being completed as well as engaging Representatives to prepare for the national conference. The call planned for January 31 will focus on training at the national conference, social media engagement, updates on programs/initiatives, and ideas for collaboration.
- Providing two trainings at the NASPA National Conference.
  - National KC Leaders Training on Saturday, March 11. This training is for all newly elected Knowledge Community Chairs and other leaders within the KC/NASPA structure.

With over 82 HBCU’s in NASPA Region III, our board is interested in developing a task force to focus on how to improve engagement and membership opportunities for Historically Black Colleges and Universities. Members of this task force are responsible for the following:

1. Reviewing the current HBCU individual/institutional members;
2. Producing a list of limitations that impact HBCU’s student affairs practitioners from joining NASPA;
3. Developing a needs assessment of NASPA member and non-member HBCU’s;
4. Creating a plan for enhancing professional development opportunities for HBCU’s in our region; and
5. Providing recommendations to the NASPA Region III for future collaborative efforts.

The culmination of this task force will result in a list of recommendations to the NASPA Region III Advisory Board to consider implementing as part of our strategic plan.
